Cordua

The Method

The Cordua Method was created by Francesco Cordua, an expert in socio-cognitive psychology. He's the founder of the school of the same name, which is recognized nationally as a center of excellence in preparation for Medical School admission tests.

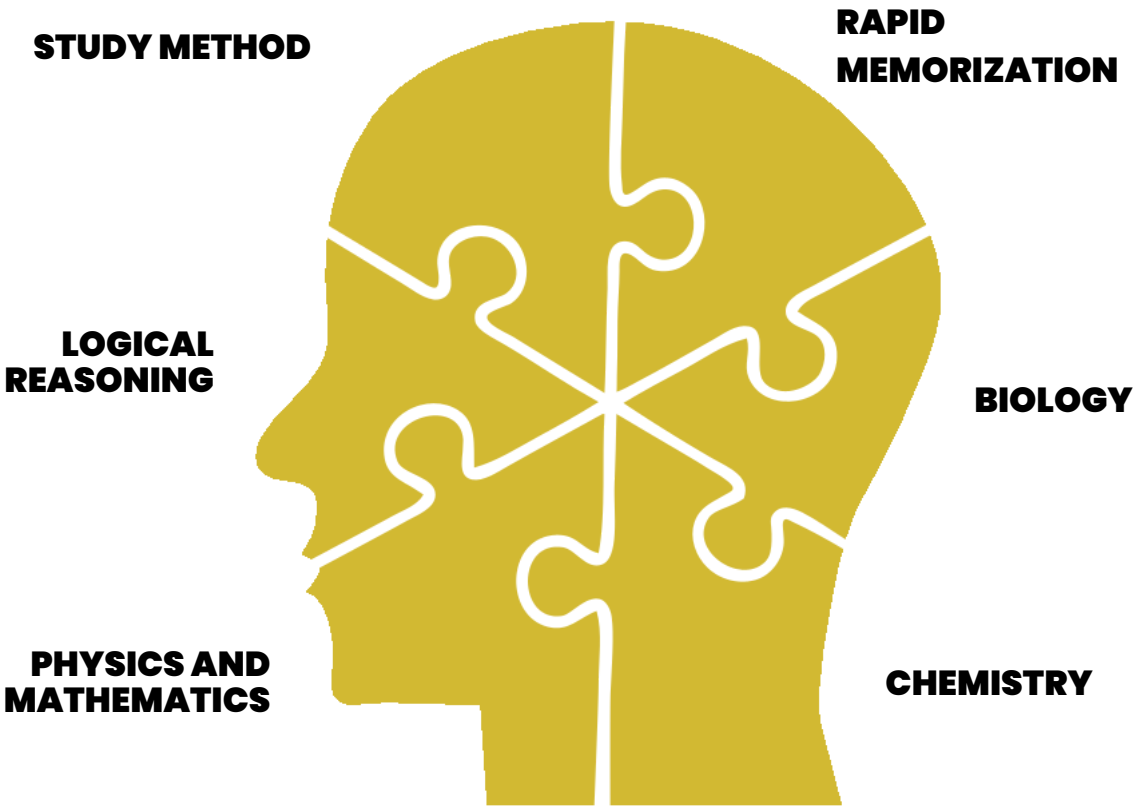

The guided pathway integrates scientific subject preparation with individualized cognitive and motivational training in order to create the foundations for continued personal excellence.
Students who prepare with the Cordua Method achieve outstanding results throughout their university journey.

Cordua

Areas of Intervention

Our lessons combine study techniques and exam format training with attention to motivational aspects . Together, these create the foundation for achieving individual excellence.

Cordua

Study Method and Rapid Memorization

To face this important challenge at your best, it is essential to start with the right approach.
Our pathway begins by helping you build a solid, personalized and effective long term study method.

We teach you how to organize your study time, simplify even the most complex topics, and maintain high levels of concentration.

From the very first day, you learn to work methodically, fix key concepts in memory, and build a strong foundation - useful both for the test and for the so called Semestre Filtro.

Cordua

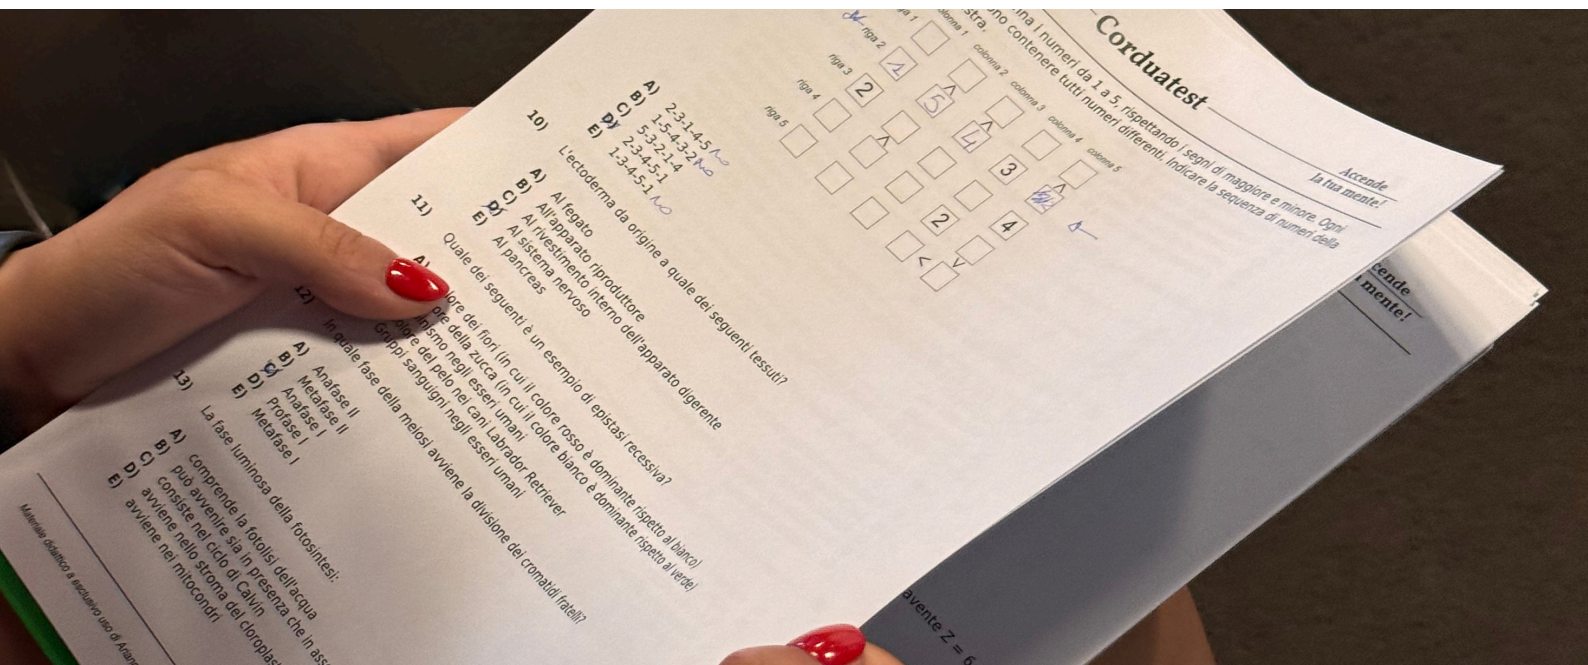

Logical Reasoning Training

Logical thinking is not only a useful skill; it is a true key to success in both admission tests and written university exams.

In this module you learn to understand each question clearly, break down information, and find reasoned solutions even under pressure.
It is not just about answering correctly, but about building a critical, strategic, agile and effective way of thinking.

The goal is to help you develop reflective skills, approach each question as a problem to solve, and be more confident in your decisions.

These skills of good reasoning are something that can be trained— and they make the difference.

Cordua

Scientific Modules

Biology, Chemistry, Physics and Mathematics will no longer be obstacles.
Our scientific pathway is designed to make these subjects more accessible and understandable.

Each topic is explained clearly, connecting theory and practice through targeted exercises.
Content is updated according to the latest ministerial guidelines and oriented both toward official test questions and your future university exams.

Regular assessments help you monitor progress and understand what area of your studies to focus on.

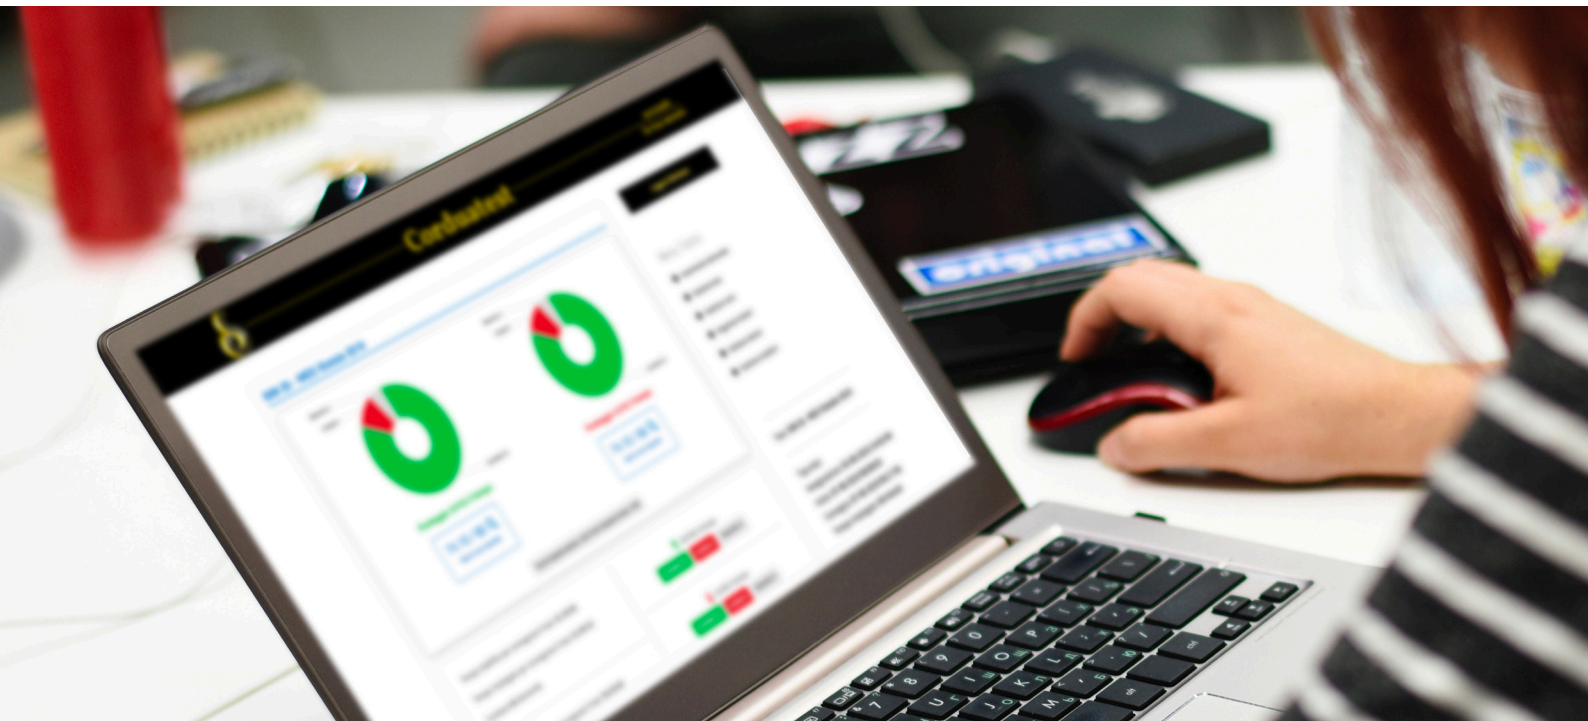

Cordua

Realistic Simulations

Testing yourself is the best way to improve.
For this reason, our program includes numerous simulations that truly reproduce real exam conditions.

Timed simulations with detailed correction, error analysis and personalized reports help you become familiar with the exam structure, improve time management and clearly identify areas to strengthen.

For students facing the Semestre filtro, we also offer tests based on official ministerial exams to ensure you arrive prepared and confident.

Cordua

Coaching

Facing this challenge requires not only technical knowledge but also mental strength and motivation.

Through our coaching, we help you develop self awareness, overcome emotional blocks, manage stress and face every situation with greater confidence.

Group work creates a supportive and collaborative environment that makes this experience truly interactive and inclusive.
Your journey will never be a solitary one: there will always be someone ready to support you.

Cordua

Integrated English Content

If you are planning to study Medicine in English, this aspect is tailor-made for you.

It helps you become familiar with scientific language in English, tackle specific quizzes in English and experience technical texts similar to those in official exams.

It’s a practical way to double your admission opportunities and broaden your academic horizons.

Students choosing this integration are expected to already have a good level of English proficiency. Additional English materials are provided.

Results

Every year, we measure our success rate using a simple, transparent figure.
Of every 100 students enrolled on our course, more than 90 go on to enrol on the healthcare degree programme they originally set their sights on.
This percentage includes a range of real outcomes:

- Students who secure a place at their first-choice university, whether public or private;
- Students who, despite not securing their first choice, successfully take up an available alternative — for example, enrolling at a public university instead of a private one, or vice versa.

To showcase these results, every year we publish an official video featuring the faces and names of our students who have secured admission.
The video is available in the “Successi” section of our website: www.cordua.org.

Our aim is not only to prepare students for the entrance exam, but also to help each of them find a path that reflects their aspirations, builds on their personal strengths and makes the most of the opportunities offered by the new admissions system.
Below, we share one of our past achievements that continues to make us proud.

"If someone were to ask me today what excellence is, I would say that excellence isn't about never making mistakes, but about keeping going: continuing to believe in yourself, picking yourself up, and moving forward. Because it's precisely when we choose not to stop that we truly begin to excel.
Thanks to this experience, I truly feel like a different person. I've realised that success takes more than studying endlessly or spending hours and hours with your nose in a book. It also takes organisation and balance in everything you do.
The greatest lesson I've taken away from this experience is about excellence. Perfection and excellence are two completely different things. No human being can ever be perfect, simply because making mistakes is part of being human."

"When I started this journey, knowing how little time I would have to prepare, I felt excited but also very frightened. The only things I could count on were my determination and my willingness to challenge myself, which stayed with me throughout the experience. I expected a programme focused "only" on academic preparation, but I discovered so much more. In just a few months, I've grown enormously: today, I'm more confident in myself and more aware of how much consistency and determination can make a difference.
Cordua not only helped me get into medical school, but also gave me a solid study method that I'm certain will support me throughout my time at university."

"Looking back, I can say that these two years have been about much more than simply preparing for the medical school entrance exam. Reaching my goal was an incredibly emotional moment, because it made me realise that all the sacrifices and daily effort had finally paid off. What will truly stay with me, though, is the approach to learning. Cordua taught me more than facts: it taught me how to study, how to think and how to face difficulties with consistency and self-awareness. This approach helped me through my final years of secondary school, and I'm certain it will continue to support me throughout my time at university. Today, I feel more mature, more aware of my abilities and more confident about taking on new challenges. That is why I consider it the most profound and lasting experience of my life."

"My time at Cordua has been a journey of profound personal growth.
It challenged me to face my limitations and showed me that I could overcome them.
I learnt discipline, consistency and the value of small sacrifices.
Step by step, goals that once seemed out of reach became a reality.
I felt myself changing within: becoming more motivated, stronger and more confident.
Cordua opened up new possibilities for my future, and for that I am grateful.
It's a journey I would take again, because it taught me that when you truly want something, the only thing standing in your way is you."
